

ROLAND BOU DIWAN

Personal Detailed Document

“In creative work – creative work of all kinds – those who are the world’s working artists are not trying to help the world go around, but forward. Which is something altogether different from the ordinary. It is, simply, something else. Its labor requires a different outlook – a different set of priorities. In truth, the work itself is the adventure. And no artist could go about his work, or would want to, with less than extraordinary energy and concentration. The extraordinary is what art is about.”
